For Weicon, the manufacturer of adhesives and sealants, the saying "All good things come in threes" was probably not enough. For the fourth year in a row, the family-owned company from Münster is one of Germany's top medium-sized employers. The title is awarded annually by the business magazine Focus Business and published in a ranking.

"We are delighted to have been named a top employer once again. It's a great sign of appreciation every time, but also a serious seal of approval for new applicants. Nowadays, you have to go to great lengths to find and retain good employees. The award shows that we are a convincing employer and do a lot right in areas such as work-life balance, working atmosphere, training opportunities and benefits."
